EMPLOYERS at Montreal are refusing employment to persons who cannot produce a certificate of vacination.

THE tobacco men of Cincinnati are talking of holding a shippers' convention in that city on the 17th of next month.

The authorities at Montreal are still having considerable trouble in getting certain classes of the people to submit to vaccination. vaccination.

It is thought that the offerings of the Cincinnati tobacco market for this year will amount to 85,000 hogsheads. Last year the offerings aggregated 70,300 hogsheads, and the year before 90,500.

Tire city election at Baltimore, last Wednesday, resulted in a victory for the Democrata. The fusion ticket put up by the Republicans and alleged Reformers, was defeated badly. The Democrats retain control of the city government by a big majority.

THE trial of Ferdinand Ward at New THE trial of Ferdinand ward at New York resulted in his conviction of the charge of grand larceny. The punish-ment is ten years' confinement in the ponitentiary, which may be lessened by the court. The brillhant "financier" will now pay for his swindling speculations with a term in prison.

The collections at Louisville on imports will run higher this month than ever before known. They will reach almost $15,000. The importance of that city as an importing point is steadily increasing. Ten years ago her collections on imports amounted to $25,000 or $9,000 at year. They are expected to reach $150,000 this year.

THERE are not a great many people in this country whose remains after death will repose in a $100,000 tomb. Of the few, however, who, it seems, are destined to enjoy this distinction. William H. Vanderbilt is one of them. The mauso-leum which he is having erected on Staten Island is nearing completion and when finished will have cost, all told, the above sure.

Ir reports be true, the President is ex-periencing considerable trouble in reor-ganizing the Civil Service Commission. The salary attached is but $3,500 a year, and the trouble is to get prominent men, whose appointment will salafy the peo-ple, to accept the position. He regards the Civil Service as one of the most im-portant features of his administration and desires to make the reform a success.

and desires to make the reform a success. General Genore B. McClellan Is dead. His death was unexpected, resulting from neuralgia of the heart after a very brief liless. He was one of the leading figures in the late civil strife, and was undoultedly a man ol superior military genius. In civil life he has been highly honored on many occasions, and always proved himself worthy of the trust rejosed in him. With his death passes away another of the great men of the country. passes away the country.

THE New York Sun of the 28th Instant, referring to an article recently published on the "Industrial Developments of the South," says:

"The Industrial growth of the South "The Industrial growth of the South during the last five years is phenomenal. The increased production of great staples upon which that section has been accustomed to rely, and development of other forms of agricultural product far exceeds any results under slave labor. Emanchation not only benefited the South, but the labor under the present conditions is contented and prosperous."

Since 1879 the assessed value of property in the South has increased $900,000,000.

Cleven thousand miles of new rall-roads have been constructed, which, with the improvements on old roads, involved the improvements on old roads, involved the expenditure of $500,000,000.

Cotton mills are rapidly increasing and have doubled in number.

The cotton seed oil mills now have a capited of over $$31,000,000$ and have quadrupied in number and capacity since $$1800.

The production of pig iron has doubled in the pass four years, and $00,000 tons of coal were added to the aggregate for the same period.

These are some of the industrial Improvements made in the South within the past five years, according to the Baltimore Manufacturers' Record. The New York Sun in alinding to these says: "These may be cattled new industries, and there are many others showing the march of enterprise in different directions. Manufactures are spreading fast, and material propegity is advancing with long strides. One of the most pleasing features of this asonishing change is that the colored people are becoming thrifty and are acquiring homes and comforts, while their children are receiving the benefits of good education."

Peath of a Good Man
The death of a Ray, S. L. Helm, which occurred at Lexington, Monday, rois the Baptist denomination of Kentucks, all one of its brainlest and most enquent ministers. Dr. Helm, pryer to the oar, was a resident of Mayaville, and subsequently resided in this city. For many years he was a citizen of Breckinridge County, having purchased a handsome farm on or near the Obio River, near Stephensport. He was a gentleman of large physique and robust beeth until about two years ago, when a cancer made the appearance upon his right hand, which was the immediate cause of his death. Dr. Helm was a gentleman of culture, fond of elevated and polite literature, sealous in the performance of the labors incumbent upon him as a minister of the denomination he believed to be the true church; charitable in all his acts and utterances; took a lively interest in all movements calculated to improve and benefit humality, was enlisted heart and soul in the temperance reformation; did not eachew politics, but was warm and enthusiastic in his support of the men and measures of the Democratile party, a devoted humband and fond and indulgent parent, and in all the walks of life conducted himself as became the plous christian, the elegant gentleman and particitic citizen. Full of years and bonors he has gone to his reward, and never did earth lose one whom it so lily could afford to a pare. His bereaved companion and sorrowing children have our sincere condoience, for we have lost a friend whom we esteemed for the qualities that endeared him to them. May the reflection that he lived a blameless and sinless life while on earth confort them with the assurance that he now lives the undying life of a saint in Hewen.—[Louisville Times.]
